REFERENCE GUIDE OF FUNDING SOURCES FOR HEALTH RESEARCH IN CANADA

FOREWORD

The Reference Guide contains information on the majority of agencies (federal, provincial, non-government and foreign) that provide funding for health research in Canada.

Total expenditure (1988) by these agencies on health research was approximately $ 425 million.

Federal: $ 211 million

Provincial: $ 70 million

Non-Government (National Voluntary Health Organizations and Foundations): $ 129 million

Foreign: $ 15 million

The following information is generally available for each agency included in this guide: address; interests (priorities); program categories; expenditures; eligibility criteria; geographical restrictions and application information.

This information was collected during 1989 by means of a survey conducted by telephone or by mail.

We wish to acknowledge the cooperation of the agencies referred to in this publication in providing the information requested. Without this assistance, compilation of the reference guide would not have been possible.
